Create user experiences that engage, inform, and inspire action.

For many organizations, execution and analysis live separately, served by different teams and tools. Precious time is wasted as recommendations from charts and dashboards get translated into actions to improve quality, throughput, and customer service.

The Decisions no-code business process automation platform uses intuitive, visual tools to develop automations and applications. Using drag-and-drop functionality you can build dynamic forms, actionable reports, data-rich charts, and active dashboards that move your organization from insight to optimized.

The Decisions Interface Designer delivers cohesive user experiences without the need for software code. With an extensive library of templates and controls, designers can apply dynamic styling and content to the tools used to manage and refine core business processes. The Interface Designer is fully integrated with the Workflow Manager and Rules Engine features, providing seamless ability to initiate user actions across all functions of the platform.

By allowing users to take action directly from report and dashboard views your processes move faster, more consistently, and with less friction.
