

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

FullStack Modular, LLC, has announced the appointment of architect Jeremy Linzee as Chief Design Officer.

In this new position Linzee will lead all design efforts, which includes serving as the design liaison to clients, architect of record and engineers of record. Additionally, he will manage the in-house architectural and engineering teams and oversee designs, materials and processes.

Linzee comes to FullStack Modular from bld architecture where as Director of Design he led all of the firm's design efforts including such projects as Nassau Coliseum Retail, New York State Greenmarket Regional Food Hub, and Netflix Film Studios in Brooklyn.

Previously, Linzee was a Project Architect at Diller Scofidio + Renfro, where he headed the design of Exits, the Cooper-Hewitt National Design Museum Visitor Experience, and the Hirshhorn Museum Lobby and worked as a project architect on The High Line/Phase 2, and The Shed. Prior to that, he worked as a Project Architect at Kohn Pedersen Fox.