Information We Collect.

We collect two types of information from you when you use the Services, or otherwise interact with Us: (1) “personally identifiable information” (as defined below) and (2) “non-personally identifiable information” (as defined below). Certain information is required to provide the Services. If you do not provide certain information, or request we delete certain information, you may no longer be able to use the Services.

Automatic collection of NPII

When you download or use the Services, We automatically collect certain information by automated or passive means using a variety of technologies described below. We use these technologies across Our Services to enhance your user experience. These technologies may allow Us to personalize your online experience, recognize you as a previous visitor, save your user preferences, and/or maintain your login and password information on secure portions of Our Services. We also use these technologies to analyze how users use Our Services and to monitor the performance of the Services, including the App. To be clear, We do not combine the general information collected through these technologies with other personal information such as to render you identifiable.

By using the Services and accepting the terms of this Privacy Policy, you agree that We can place these technologies on your computer, phone, tablet, or other device. You have the option of adjusting your browser or device settings to restrict or limit the use of these technologies. However, if you choose to do so, the functionality of the Services and your user experience may be negatively affected. When you utilize the Services, We automatically collect certain information about your device, browsing actions, and patterns, including but not limited to: information about your device and internet collection, including your web browser, IP address, operating system, platform type (such as Apple iOS or Android), time zone, geolocation, and cookies installed on your device; details of your visits and use of Our Services, including what websites or search terms referred you to the Services; the number of clicks on a feature; the amount of time spent on the Services; and information about how you interact with the Services. We refer to this automatically-collected information as “Device Information.” We collect Device Information using the following technologies:

We do not set any additional cookies relating to your use of these embedded social and content cookies. However, if you choose to click on these links and they take you to a third-party website, the third-party may place additional cookies of its own. These third-party cookies fall outside the scope of this Privacy Policy. We encourage you to reach out to the third party if you have any questions about how they track your use of the embedded content on Our Sites.
