@AskTSA Can I bring a set of lockpicks in my carry on? (Less than 7" and cannot cut)

A photograph showing a set of lockpicks. On the left is a tan canvas carrying case with the word "SPARROWS" and a keyhole logo. To the right of the case are several silver metal lockpicks of various shapes and sizes, including straight picks, curved picks, and L-shaped picks, arranged in a row on a dark surface.

Kristi Farinelli @kristifarinelli · 24 Jul 2016

The @AskTSA service via Facebook Messenger is great; we tested it @hopeconf earlier (asked about lockpicking gear) 🔒

Can I bring my new lock pick set in my carry-on bag?

Hi Kristie. Tools under 7" long are allowed in carry-on baggage. Please let us know if we can assist you further. - Mary

Thank you so much!

@AskTSA what's your policy on lockpick sets, specifically the kind that are retractable (think a Swiss Army knife but with lockpick tools) @mattatha

General Screening

+ What is the policy on powders? Are they allowed?

- Can I film and take photos at a security checkpoint?

TSA does not prohibit photographing, videotaping or filming at security checkpoints, as long as the screening process is not interfered with or sensitive information is not revealed.

Interference with screening includes but is not limited to holding a recording device up to the face of a TSA officer so that the officer is unable to see or move, refusing to assume the proper stance during screening, blocking the movement of others through the checkpoint or refusing to submit a recording device for screening.

Additionally, you may not film or take pictures of equipment monitors that are shielded from public view.
