

V-SAFE Reports with Symptom Keyword = ARTHRITIS

compiled by Craig Paardekooper

V-Safe is the largest collection of vaccine testimonies on the planet.

One of the reasons why the CDC was so reluctant to release the free-text entries of the V-Safe reports is because these entries are the personal testimonies of vaccine effects – numbering 390,000 per release, and numbering millions in total.

Having censored and erased hundreds of thousands of testimonies of vaccine injury from Facebook, the government was equally reluctant to be the provider of what is the largest collection of vaccine testimonies on the planet – collected by the CDC themselves !

Perhaps this is <<the longest story ever told>>, the testimony of 1 million people.

Many thanks to ICAN (<https://icandecide.org/v-safe-data/>) who pursued the CDC through the courts until they finally conceded and began to release this data on January 15th 2024.

Data is from all 4 releases, up until June 15th 2024, reported by 1,092,715 Covid <<vaccine>> recipients. The next release is on July 15th, 2024.

I had knee surgery for septic arthritis on Sept 16. After a regimen of antibiotics via PICC line, and other medications, I began taking Meloxicam once a day, around Dec 1. I am still taking it, and will eventually have a total knee replacement. (I also take Diovan and bisoprolol daily for high blood pressure, as well as vitamins, minerals, and a probiotic). I wondered if the Meloxicam might be the reason I have not experienced any side effects from the Moderna COVID vaccine.

It feels like something is swollen inside, although I do not feel any supraclavicular nodes, I wonder if I have had some adenopathy. It hurts in that area when I lie on that side. It is the side that I had the vaccine on. It was slightly better today than it has been, but its been fairly persistent and sore since the time of the shot. Also, When I take my daily walk I do seem to be having some ankle pain that has just occurred to me might be related to the shot. On day 8 (Jan 22) I experienced the peak of swelling, redness, heat, itch at the injection site. Swelling was like a lump that was 3 inches by 2 inches. That night, at roughly midnight I started to experience extreme burning in all of my toes. This was very painful and something that I have never experienced before. Maybe this is what extreme arthritis feels like? I don't know. After a couple hours I proceeded to treat the pain with Tylenol. I was then able to sleep the next morning the pain was gone. However, I have pronounced numbness in my feet. This is very unusual. All my toes and the area surrounding them is quite numb. This is now day 11 and the situation with the feet is still the same. It feel like I am walking with cotton surrounding my toes. I don't fully feel my socks, shoes, floor, sheets, etc. The redness, swelling, burning and itching in my arm is now almost entirely gone. I am wondering if the situation in my feet will improve. And I am wondering if I should proceed with the second injection.

I have Ehlers-Danlos Syndrome, which will sometimes turn pain thats bad enough into nausea. This happened the first evening after receiving the injection. My shoulder and arm hurt enough by the end of the first evening that I couldnt take a hoodie off over my head, and had to have my husband pull it off while I bent down with my arms hanging down. The patch I put on is the transdermal scopolamine patch for chemo patients, prescribed to me for pain purposes. Happily it lasts for three days. Essentially every joint in my body hurt the next day, and ended up with me taking a bunch of different pain meds to try getting it to stop, including the narcotic I take for joint pain, Tramadol. I have early onset osteoarthritis. While rheumatoid arthritis is being screened for at injection locations, osteoarthritis and (unsurprisingly) EDS arent. It would appear that at least one or possibly both of these conditions will trigger something like what happened to me in others, so I feel it might be wise to note that and add it to the checklist. Presumably there are a lot of people who have OA, and not nearly as many with EDS, but since both mess your joints, erring on the side of caution and at least warning people about it so they can schedule the next day or two off would be a good idea.

One interesting thing. I have a genetic marker for reactive arthritis. I discovered this when I was infected with c.dif and came down with severe arthritis about 6 years ago. I subsequently learned that this is related to athletes foot which I have on the big toe of my left foot. It may be a coincidence, but the athletes foot on that left big toe has acted up again since the vaccination. I wonder if it has anything to do with an immune response. Just an observation and a thought.

No symptoms today from the injection. Only problems from my arthritis and other health problems as far as I can tell. I have a diary of sorts that I will be taking to appointment for my second injection if I am brave enough to receive it.. I have read that other people who have had a reaction to the first shot will possibly have a worse reaction to the second shot. I would like to receive additional information concerning this topic if available. I have also read that it may not be necessary for a second injection if you had a reaction to the first one. Is this true? If have not received info from you guys I will try contacting the agency where I received the first shot. I do have concerns about a second shot.
